INTERNATIONAL ELECTROTECHNICAL COMMISSION

TECHNICAL COMMITTEE 80: Maritime Navigation and radiocommunication equipment and systems

IEC 61097-3: Global Maritime Distress and Safety System Part 3: Digital Selective Calling

JOINT IEC/ITU group of experts meeting on DSC, 25-27 February 2002

Maintenance Cycle Report 80/276/MCR indicates that this International Standard needs to be revised, however the background work on the relevant ITU recommendations for this revision needed to be completed by ITU Study Group 8 Working Party 8B.

At the WP8B meeting in Geneva at the end of October 2001 it was agreed to have a joint IEC-ITU meeting of experts to prepare the ground for the revision of the standard.

Facilities have been arranged for this meeting at The British Standards Institute in London for the 25th to the 27th of February 2002. This week has been chosen as most delegates will have been in London at the IMO COMSAR 6 meeting the week before.

The IEC TC80 Project Leader for this task is:

Jon Turban, P.E. United States Coast Guard

USCG Research & Development Center
1082 Shennecossett Road
Groton, CT 06340 USA Phone: 1 860 441 2834
Email: jturban@rdc.uscg.mil

Any TC80 Member interested should contact him indicating their wish to participate in this work, their intention to attend this first meeting and their membership credentials if they are new to IEC work.

Members of ITU SG8 WP8B are also asked to contact him so that we can plan the room size.

GENERAL INFORMATION

British Standards House (BSH): Location map

Location

British Standards House (BSH) is the modern headquarters building of the British Standards Institution. It is situated in Chiswick, approximately 10 km west of the centre of London and 15 km east of London (Heathrow) airport. The building is located directly above Gunnersbury station on the London underground railway system.

The meetings taking place each day are shown on monitors in the area adjacent to the lifts on the Ground floor of BSH.

BSH is equipped with its own restaurant offering a wide range of cheap food at lunchtimes. Tea, coffee and biscuits will be provided throughout the meetings.

Banking facilities in the immediate vicinity of BSI Chiswick are limited and it may be more convenient to exchange currency or travellers cheques elsewhere before arriving at the meeting.

Please bring all relevant meeting documents with you, as spare copies will not be available at the meeting. If you wish to table additional documents, you should ensure that you bring sufficient copies. Copying facilities will be available for reproduction of documents drafted during the meeting.

Security, badges/access cards

Delegates are asked to report to the main reception desk where they will be provided with a badge, which is also an access card, valid for the period of the meeting. Access to the building is controlled. Staff, committee members and international delegates are required to display their badge at all times for identification purposes.

The normal meeting hours are between 9am and 5pm. The meetings will be conducted in English, and no translation or interpretation facilities will be available.

Please note that smoking is not permitted within British Standards House.
